Huggins Is Sure Yankees Will Repeat: Big Games This Week in Sandlot Series

CLUB DID BETTER ON TRIP THAN PILOT ANTICIPATED

He Declared Before Going West That If Team Won Half Its Games and Ruth Regained His Stride His Charges Would Retain Pennant.

BY GEORGE R. CHADWICK.

TEW YORK, August 12.- When the major league clubs shifted and the American eastern teams went west, Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, said in the course of a talk about his team: "If we can win more than 50% of the games on this trip I think we will win the championship again. This trip will make or break Ruth. It will take him away from New York where he has been stung by the will take min away from New York where he has been stung by the criticism of the spectators and some others. He is not accustomed to it and cannot understand it. If Ruth plays at his best this club can win its second championship. That it can win without Ruth going at his best is a question. Were I to answer that question from my opinion I would say no.'

Having said all this, Huggins insisted that not a word be mentioned about it until after the trip. He felt chary about starting into the country of the enemy with any comment or pre-dictions floating loose in the base ball Team and Ruth Play Well. The trip is over and the Yanks broke better than ever. Ruth play-ed better ball than he had been play-ing prior to the time that the team started west, and for these reasons the conversation with Huggins comes to be very good base ball history. It will now be in order for the New York club to win the championship to vindicate the judgment of the New York manager.

As a matter of fact, the New York club on its trip west played better base ball than the other clubs in the American League had anticipated. Very likely the managers of rival clubs made their estimate of what New York could do on the basis of what New York did in the earlier part of the season. Ty Cobb did not expect to see the Yanks win two-thirds of their games. Gleas in thought they would be lucky if they even broke even. Fohl of St. Louis, as usual, had nothing to say.

Is an Exceptional Feat.

Is an Exceptional Feat.

The trip made by the Yankees is up to the standard of their trips of last year, when they won their first pennant. In some years such a trip might have broken the spirit of the contender. Any base ball team winning approximately two games in three is playing the kind of ball that discourages the other fellow. However, there enters into this display of the Yanks the fact that letroit and St. Louis have been playing nearly as well, and for that reason the spirit of the contending teams has not been abated by the success of the champions.

That Huggins estimated Ruth's value to his team better than any man who has spoken of Babe as a ball player proves itself by the noticeable improvement in the playing of the Yankees when Ruth began to strike the pace which he set in 1921. Those who shouted so vigorously that the Yankees could win Is an Exceptional Feat.

Furthermore, these youngsters make and perfect all the arrangements for the games in which their team participates, and, it is said, save for a bit of gentlemanly comment when their manager or captain fails to come up to expectations, or an umpire unrolls a bad decision from a befogged brain, the boys, both on and off the field, conduct themselves in a manner to excite the emulation of the big lengue clubs.

They have arranged to attend in a body the benefit game to be given at American League Park August 24, between the Nationals and the Chicagos, the proceeds from which, under an arrangement base ball championship will find leaders in the various sections battling to hold their positions. No game is scheduled in section A of the unlimited division, but in sections B and C the top teams must go out on the field and defend their honors. Mohawks, topping section B with four games won and one lost, has a contest with War Finance, which is third in the standing with one game won and two lost. In section C the Union Printers, leading with five victories and one defeat, are scheduled to face the Optometrists. In section A of the senior division Roamers, tied for first with Aztecs, are scheduled against St. Peters, which has not won a game since the series started. In section B of the senior division, Holy Name is to face Park View, and in section A of the junior division the Holy Name Juniors are booked for a scrap with Trinity Juniors, one of the two teams in the section which seem to have a chance against the leaders.

Throwing out of all games played by the clubs which have been dropped from the series seems to work a hardship on some of the teams, but probably there is no other way to get around revising the standings. While it hardly seems right to take away from a team games it has won just because some other team is dropped, it would not seem any more right to allow a club to get credit for games won aganist a club which might not have been played by another team which also could win just as easily from the same nine.

Of course the ball may be so bad! cupped that the shot cannot be made in the orthodox way with a brassie and an iron should then be used. The question is one of good judgment There are experienced players, however who always stick to the brassie in case the club must be held in an absolutely firm grip, and the ground should ball. A follow through with such a shot is very difficult, but should be
